- Due to unhealthy lifestyle, the medical conditions among people have increased
- People often find it difficult to go to hospital, consult doctors and get medical prescription
- Buying medicine and scheduling a lab test also become a tedious task

With increased medical emergencies, there is no instant solution to contact potential donors.

Developing an application to give people a chance to consult doctors and get their medicine prescription will be really helpful,

And having a personalized remainder for regulating the medicine intake in right time.

Our application also tries to connect potential blood donors and recipients

- Integrating this platform with hospitals
- Developing mobile application for the same
- Including organ donations

Thank You
